

This is a 1969 official highway map of Iowa. The map displays a comprehensive network of roads, with major highways highlighted in red and other roads in black. Major cities and towns are marked with red dots and labeled. The map also shows county boundaries and names. A large inset table at the bottom left lists the names and populations of all cities and towns in Iowa as of 1960. The table is organized by population size, with the largest cities at the top and the smallest at the bottom. The map includes a legend for road types and symbols for cities and towns. The title '1969 IOWA HIGHWAY MAP' is prominently displayed at the top left. The map is a detailed representation of the state's infrastructure and population distribution at the time.